Feedback Requested

This resource list represents phase one of a larger project intended to address gaps in appropriate resources for international farm workers in Ontario. A more complete and targeted set of resources will be made available for the spring 2021 season.

How you can help:

- Are there COVID-19 resources you have that are not included here? Please let us know, so we can continue building this resource list.
- The project is also identifying COVID-19 information and resource gaps for international agricultural workers. What information is not available to these communities? Or what information is not in accessible formats? Share any information and or resource gaps you have identified.
- Work will be done to produce new informational resources to address resource gaps. Please let us know if you would like to explore collaboration in producing needed resources.

Any comments related to this resource library, or the questions noted above, please contact Ben Murray, OFVGA Project Coordinator by emailing coordinator@ofvga.org.

HOW TO USE THIS LIBRARY

This document contains a comprehensive list of COVID-19 resources to support international agricultural workers and employers in Ontario during the pandemic. Many resources in the library are available in English, Spanish, and Thai.

Last updated: January 29, 2021

Disclaimer

- This resource library is not intended to take the place of medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment. Where the resources in this library includes references to legal requirements, it is not to be construed as legal advice.
- In the event of any conflict between this guidance document and any orders or directives issued by the Minister of Health or the Chief Medical Officer of Health, the order or directive prevails.
- If you have any questions on how to protect workers from COVID-19 please contact your local public health unit.

Legend

- COVID-19 safety guidance information for use by employers to inform their workplace safety plans, policies and practices.
- COVID-19 resources that can be used by employers for worker education and training.
- Resources from the Governments of Canada, Ontario, and Canadian Municipalities. (Resources not noted with a red dot are from non-government organizations and other country sources)

Tips for quickly finding the resource you need:

- Type Control+F (or Command+F on Macs) to bring up a search box where you can type in key words you are looking for.
 - For example: type in “physical distancing”, “video” or “Thai” and the function will take you to sections of the document that includes that term.

Using Resources for Worker Education

International Agricultural Workers have varying communication needs which must be considered and addressed to ensure COVID-19 safety information is understood. Resources included in this library vary in addressing these needs; therefore, it is important to consider the resource and how to use it most effectively.

- Videos, in worker languages, are among the most accessible resources, as they can address language and literacy needs.
- Image and pictogram-based factsheets and posters are also a good alternative to text heavy resources.
 - Image-based posters need to be presented or explained to workers to be effective. Putting up a poster, without explaining key messages, can lead to misinterpretation by workers.
- If text heavy resources are used, ensure key information is reviewed with workers orally, in their language, so those with literacy challenges understand.

In all cases, ensure training is done in worker languages, promotes engagement, and provides workers the opportunity to ask questions, and to clarify information to ensure comprehension.
